Couple brings in the gold

John and Louise Bowen insist they did not have a chance to practice before competing in the Downriver Senior Olympics earlier this month.

Nevertheless, the Romulus couple raked in the medals at the three-day event, each winning in three events. Louise brought home the gold in woman's bowling and the best ball scramble in golf. She also won a bronze medal for golf — closest to the pin. John won bronze medals for horseshoes, ping pong and the softball distance throw.

"We just went out there and did it," John said grinning.

Neither of the Bowens had planned to attend the Downriver Senior Olympics. New to the area, they moved here from Ypsilanti Township one year ago. Several weeks before the event, John decided to visit the local senior center to explore part-time job opportunities. When he was told about the olympics, he decided it would be fun. Louise agreed, and they entered. John attributes their winning ways to a family love for sports. His passion for baseball spans 40 years, many of which he spent coaching Little League.

Both of the Bowens are bowlers. Louise bowls four times a week in fact, boasting an overall average of 162. John bowls nearly as often with an overall average of 187.

Louise is also an avid golfer, hitting the greens at least once a week. Between the two of them, John and Louise have won approximately 300

Construction is approved for new skateboard park

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Nearly three rows of seats in city council chambers were filled with teens and parents Monday night as councilmembers voted to award asphalt and fencing contracts for a community skateboard facility.

Approved was a $5,500 contract to Rey-Mart Asphalt and a $2,300 contract to Rauch Brothers for the fencing.

Holding their skateboards on their laps, many of the young people present at the meeting were also on hand in early June when councilmembers were presented with a proposal for a skateboard facility by Debbie Dick, recreation department director.

During that meeting, councilmembers agreed to accept bids for the asphalt and fencing needed to construct a skateboard area in Elmer Johnson Park. The facility will consist of a 50-by-100-foot asphalt surface bounded by a six-foot tall fence. Also discussed were possible membership cards and liability waivers for users.

Issues of costs and safety hazards stemming from the facility continue to concern councilmembers.

"This is a lot of money for something I would classify as a fad," Councilman Noah Bergeron said. "This is not going to keep kids off the streets. They'll just ride their skateboards to the park."

"Any activity you can encourage young people in... you'll have less kids in the streets breaking windows," Councilman Ellis Pennington said.

"I want to see these kids involved," Bergeron replied. "But instead of breaking windows they'll be breaking legs."

Several young people in the audience spoke out, claiming a skateboard area interests many teens in the community. They also offered information about existing facilities in the country.

After city councilmembers approved the bids by a slim margin, teens, parents and a recreation department representative in the audience agreed to meet to discuss concerns.

Shooting suspect acquitted by judge

After a trial that lasted just a few hours, Florine Horn, 46, of Inkster, was acquitted Monday of the June shooting death of her daughter's boyfriend.

Horn had been charged with first-degree murder of Danny Ray Fairchild, 34. The charge was reduced to second-degree murder in July due to a motion filed by Horn's attorney, Robert Palmer.

During her bench trial before Judge Leonard Townsend at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit, Horn's actions were described as self-defense and she was acquitted.

A large crowd present at the trial reportedly broke into applause after the ruling by Townsend.

According to testimony from Horn's preliminary examination, the shooting of Fairchild occurred after a day of arguing between Horn and her daughter and Fairchild.

Fairchild reportedly came to the Romulus home of Horn's daughter and threatened to shoot her and her three children. Fairchild had reportedly been intoxicated.

Horn reportedly checked in on her daughter twice that afternoon, returning with a gun the second time.

Horn reportedly told Fairchild to leave. Horn shot Fairchild as he walked toward her with a gun, according to testimony.

Fairchild was shot in the chest and the head. He was pronounced dead on the scene.

"I personally don't think the warrant should ever have been authorized," Palmer said.

It is unfortunate Fairchild lost his life, Palmer added, but he had continuously threatened Horn and her family.

Horn remained in the Wayne County Jail since the time of her arrest. She was released Monday afternoon.

Effects of chemical explosion on city are questioned, studied

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

City officials remain unsure of the possible long-term effects of a chemical explosion reported in Romulus last June.

Dow Chemical, supplier of the chemicals involved in the incident, claimed hydrochloric acid gas was released during the explosion in a recent report to the city. Hydrogen chloride gas, extremely water soluble, makes a strong acid. Uses include the manufacture of corn syrup from starch, the extraction of glue from cartilage and other animal tissue, the preparation of textiles and the manufacture of dyes. After consulting with two toxicologists, city officials now claim any chemicals released during the explosion have probably dissipated and area residents are not likely to be affected in the future. A follow-up report from Dow is expected.

The blast occurred inside a tanker parked near Chemcentral, a holding company on Huron River Drive, June 23.

The driver of the tanker, from an outside company, mistakenly unloaded an unwanted chemical into a customer's portable tank while in Detroit the day of the explosion. Upon discovering his mistake, the driver pumped the chemical back into another compartment of the tanker which was filled with a second chemical, according to reports.

Combined was methylene chloride — a base used in soap products — and diethanolamine — used in paint thinners. Approximately three hours later, expansion of the resulting gases created a blast that sent two manhole covers on the tanker flying.

Several bystanders and a police officer on the scene sought hospital treatment after exposure to a "chemical cloud" resulting from the explosion. Short-term effects of exposure

Funds allocated for county jail

Members of the public safety and judiciary committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners approved $12.1 million in additional funds last week for prison projects.

Included in the allocation will be additional resources for jail renovation and expansion, as well as examining of costs for the new county jail, which is planned for Hamtramck.

County Commissioner Jackie L. Currie (D-Detroit), who serves as chairwoman of the committee, said the projects are already progressing well, but that the extra money was needed to help complete them.

Currie also promised that the jail expansion and renovations are necessary expenses, and will include nothing taxpayers would object to.

"It was just plumbing and things like that," Currie said. "Nothing luxurious."

Currie acknowledged that there have been reports of prisoners in other communities receiving luxuries, such as cable television and expensive athletic shoes. But she said this money would pay for nothing like that.

The action had been requested by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, and will adjust the total spending level for the jail projects to $6,551,052.

County offers child care

A plan to develop a child-care facility in the Wayne County building was approved last week by members of the ways and means committee of the county board of commissioners.

The facility, which will benefit county employees and their children, is expected to be ready for operation in approximately five weeks, according to Leito Durley, public information director for the commission.

The project will involve moving several offices from the location earmarked for the child-care center, Durley said. A fence is also being erected outside the building so the children can play outdoors.

Grant to fight child abuse

The Wayne County prosecutor's office received a state grant last week to help pursue child-abuse cases.

The grant, which totals $17,000, will pay approximately half the salary for a prosecutor who will work solely on child-abuse cases. It is a renewal of previous grants that have been received by the state for anti-child abuse efforts.

Airport adds new service

Passengers at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, in Romulus, will soon be able to take advantage of a new short-term service.

A contract was approved last week by members of the ways and means committee of the Wayne County board of commissioners to install a short-term passenger service, administered by Midwest Express airline, to Midwest cities that include Milwaukee and Chicago.

Al Montgomery, clerk of the committee, said the contract is expected to produce $96,000 in annual revenue for the airport.

Senior centers net new funds

The Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township senior citizens' centers have been targeted for equipment-fund grants from the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

Members of the state Commission on Services have awarded $2,600 each to the Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township centers for the purchase of a van semi-automatic lift at both facilities.

The funds are earmarked by the state agency to local agencies for the purpose of purchasing new equipment.

Decision on fees postponed

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

The issue of new airport fees was tabled again last week by members of the ways and means committee of the Wayne County board of commissioners.

A proposal to institute fees for aircraft landing, parking and terminal use at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, in Romulus, which has been tabled by the committee since Jan. 26, was tabled again when committee members could not agree on a solution to the issue, according to committee clerk Al Montgomery.

"It will come off the table when there's something new on the issue," Montgomery said.

The fee is designed to add revenue to the total county airport budget, but is not earmarked for any specific purpose, Montgomery said.

The airport general-fund budget for the current year is $58 million, which is added to $28 million in capital-improvement funding.

Some committee members have proposed a gasoline fee instead, Montgomery said, but others have argued that the fee could be avoided by aircraft pilots refueling at other airports.

Owners and operators of small aircraft, particularly those less than 6,000 pounds, have said they oppose the fee because it could force them to stop using Metro Airport. Montgomery said proponents of the fee deny that is the reason for the fee, or that it would result if the fee is approved.

Other fees that currently fund airport operations include concession fees and property, space and land rental fees. The fees are paid by airlines who

Eloise buildings to be demolished

Plans are expected to be announced sometime next month for the demolition and restoration of buildings at the Eloise site, in Westland, according to Deputy Wayne County Executive Michael Duggan.

The Eloise site, located at Michigan Avenue and Merriam Road, was once the home of the Wayne County infirmary.

use the airport.

Owners and operators of "based" aircraft — those that have their base of operations at metro airport — have been a major force in the debate as well.

"The issue here is based aircraft," Montgomery said.

"They don't want to pay it."

Committee members who oppose the fee have suggested that alternative plans be submitted. According to Montgomery, such a plan would have to originate in the office of County Executive Edward McNamara.

County event is cancelled

The Wayne County park program, "Gone Fishin'," was cancelled by county park officials this year because of declining attendance and possible pollution problems.

The annual event would have been staged Sept. 9 at Newburgh Lake. During the past two years, "Gone Fishin'" has been a way to celebrate Grandparent's Day. Grandparents and children entered contests for the largest fish caught, the most fish caught, the youngest participant and the largest family entered.

However, the event did not attract a large turnout last year, according to Vic Chaisson, Wayne County recreation manager. In addition, recreation officials are concerned pollution in the lake may affect the fishing.

The event has not been permanently eliminated, Chaisson stressed. It simply has been put on hold.

"We plan on reviving it," Chaisson said.

Senior van may net funds

City councilmembers Monday approved an application for a $18,573 grant from the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation to support the Romulus senior citizens van program.

The program has been eligible to receive a grant from SMART, formerly the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority, for five years under the municipal credit program. Funding would go toward driver wages and fringe benefits, gas, oil, insurance and vehicle maintenance.

The senior van, operated through the recreation department, provides local senior citizens with transportation to area businesses and planned outings.

Bids accepted for Hannan sewers

As a first step in the city capital-improvement program, bids will be accepted for sewer extensions along Hannan Road.

"Installation of sewers in this area will open it to residential development, correct some improper taps and eliminate the future need for septic fields. It will also bring sewers to some residents who have been long requesting service," said Mayor Beverly McAnalley.

Estimated project costs are $100,000 for an extension on Eureka Road north for 1,300 feet. A 4,000-foot extension from Barth Road south is expected to cost $280,000.

Historical Society celebrates birthday

Members of the Romulus Historical Society gathered earlier this month to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the organization.

The local group was established in August 1979 with 20 charter members. Today, more than 60 residents and local businesses are on the roster.

"I think we've come quite a way," said society president, Pearl Varner.

During the celebration, complete with a birthday cake, members also noted the birthday of a local schoolhouse currently being restored. The building, which will ultimately become the Romulus Historical Museum, was completed in the summer of 1889, according to Varner.

As members continue work on the schoolhouse, they are compiling a list of names to put on a plaque for the completed building. Those who donate $500 or more to the project will be mentioned.

The next meeting of the historical society will be staged at 7 p.m., Sept. 20 at the Romulus Public Library.

Councilmembers support bond legislation

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Rules that force municipalities to turn over to the federal government all interest earned from bond issues is harming local governments, city councilmembers said Monday.

Councilmembers unanimously approved a resolution supporting legislation that would provide relief from the rules, allowing municipalities to reap the rewards of bond issues.

City Treasurer James

This does create a loss to local governments in the form of revenues that would be used to reduce the principle cost of a project, or expand a project with the additional revenues.

— James Napiorkowski
Romulus city treasurer

Napiorkowski proposed the resolution to council. He pointed out a current bond issue for improvements along Wick Road that could earn as much as $98,000 for Romulus.

Currently, however, that money must be turned over to the federal government due to the Tax Reform Act of 1986 and the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988, Napiorkowski said.

"This does create a loss to local governments in the form of revenues that would be used to reduce the principle cost of a project, or expand a project with the additional revenues," he said.

The legislation, Napiorkowski told councilmembers, was introduced earlier this month by Congressman Beryl Anthony Jr. (D-Arizona). The proposed legislation would modify the current law by providing an option for issuers. One can choose to "spend out" bond proceeds over a three-year period if specific spending-percentage tests are met each year and earnings are used to cover project costs. If the issuer does not meet these requirements, a penalty must be paid to the federal government.

A companion bill, HR 3137, prohibits the issuers from abusing bond issues as a hedge against inflation rather than using the proceeds for specific projects.

Developers to seek 12-year abatement

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

City councilmembers are weighing the benefits of a proposed development for Romulus against a request from developers for a 12-year tax abatement.

Representatives of Precision Hardware, Inc. plan to construct a $3-million facility on the southeast corner of Van Born and Cogswell roads.

Developers have divided the project into several phases. The first phase would retain 72 jobs in Wayne County and create 20 new jobs for Romulus. If their plans remain on track, developers anticipate completion of the first phase by May or June. Upon completion of the final phase, the Romulus hardware plant would create up to 250 jobs, developers said.

Councilmembers agreed Monday to consider the tax-abatement request at a public hearing at 6:45 p.m., Sept. 11.

A brief meeting, however, was staged Monday with councilmembers, Precision Hardware officials and Mayor Beverly McAnalley.

Representatives of the hardware company said building permits and zoning requirements for the plant are already in place. They promised to attempt to use Romulus contractors for construction and seek local people for the new job openings.

They also stated that a total of $350,000 in company money will be put toward road improvements and land purchases for the development.

McAnalley said the city generally awards six-year abatements, but she acknowledged the Precision Hardware facility would be a large development, beneficial to the community.

City officials will have several more weeks to consider the abatement request.

Proposed ordinance would regulate sewage

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Addressing water-pollution concerns, Romulus city councilmembers Monday introduced an ordinance regulating industrial pretreatment of wastewater.

The ordinance was required under a recent consent judgement order with the United States Environmental Protection Agency. It affects sewage garet LeDuc, coordinator of emergency preparedness for Romulus.

LeDuc said the city has sought advice from two toxicologists, Dr. K.F. Sidhu from the Michigan Department of Public Health and Dr. Jonathan Borak from Yale University.

Predicting results of the chemical mix is impossible, the doctors said, because they do not know the amounts of chemicals mixed.

stay young with them," Louise explained. "All of the children are sports minded. That's what keeps us going."

By next year, the Bowens hope to convince as many people as possible to attend the Olympics. John said he is already hooked.

"The whole thing was wonderful. We met an awful lot of wonderful people. That was the best part. The second best part was seeing people our age out there participating," he said.

In addition, councilmembers

In addition, it is possible a third chemical came into play when the driver accidentally pumped methylene chloride into the portable tank in Detroit, LeDuc said.

Based on the nature of the two known chemicals, the toxicologists claim long-term effects for area residents are unlikely.

"I trust their knowledge. They can't predict...They made an educated guess," LeDuc said.

time, look out next year, John laughed.

"I'm going to go all out," he said. "I want to be able to say...I did it my way."

The Bowens plan to participate in more events next year. John wants to try scrambles in golf, and Louise hopes to enter the euchre competition.

Olympic events range from swimming to bridge, John pointed out, leaving seniors with few excuses not to participate.

"We want those people to go out and do this," he said.

approved a delegation agreement allowing the city of Detroit to enforce the ordinance.

In addition to preventing water pollution, the ordinance is designed to improve the opportunity to recycle or reclaim wastewaters or sludge from the treatment system.

The 58-page document will be presented to city council later this month for final approval.

In the transcript from the interview with Mills, the suspect said Grauman splashed herself with gasoline accidentally with Camilli setting her on fire. During the interview, Mills said he burned his hand as he tried to prevent Grauman from escaping the car.

The cell mate testified that Camilli told him it was Mills who splashed gasoline on Grauman. He said Camilli claimed they chose the woman as a target for their anger because they were afraid of being identified if they "bombed" the apartment complex.

Also present to testify at the hearing was Mill's wife. She said her father, Camilli, said "we got them" after returning home the night of the attack.

Local Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose district includes most of western Wayne County, took a trip back to his early career days last month, as he participated in a first-strike ceremony on the capital grounds, in Washington, D.C., and helped operate a coin stamping machine. H&R BLOCK INCOME TAX COURSE BEGINS SEPTEMBER 6

Save time and money when you take the H&R Block Income Tax Course.

Thousands of people enjoy part-time employment and earn money each year as income tax preparers. Many received their training in income tax courses taught by H&R Block.

The 75-hour basic course introduced students to income tax preparation. They will receive hands-on experience in preparing individual tax returns, working with increasingly complex tax situations as the term progresses. It is ideal for homemakers, retirees, teachers or anyone else wanting to increase his or her tax knowledge.

Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment. Registration forms and brochures can be obtained by contacting H&R Block.

Expanded alternative corrections plan eyed

By BARBARA WILSON
ANP News Editor

Wayne County officials continue to move forward in their plans to solve a jail-overcrowding problem by expanding the alternative work force, according to Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan.

"Wayne County is in the forefront of this type of program in the state," Duggan said.

Community corrections programs are in place throughout the state to help alleviate jail overcrowding. Programs discussed provide alternative punishments to jail terms for misdemeanor and non-violent felony offenders.

This year, a state grant of $100,000 is being used to fuel the Wayne County alternative-work-force program, Duggan said.

Currently, individuals found guilty of retail fraud, driving while under the influence of alcohol and other misdemeanors can be spotted along county roadways, picking up trash and maintaining the area.

"There is no real security out there, so the people could just walk away," Duggan said. "The next day, we would go pick them up and send them to Alpena (prison) for a couple months."

Next year, however, county officials are hoping to receive additional funds to finance a similar program for convicted, non-violent felony offenders.

"We need to come up with some way to handle prisoners for two years, until the Hamtramck (jail) facility is opened," Duggan said.

Although funding has not yet been received, county officials are working to map out a plan which would include the non-violent offenders. The plan, Duggan said, must include additional security measures, as well as some means for rehabilitating the individuals.

"We're looking at a program that would combine community service, education and job training in a supervised environment," Duggan said.

Finding work for the alternative-work-force individuals in a building or other structure which could be more closely guarded is a first priority, Duggan explained.

Guidelines of the program would also require those felons who do not have a high school diploma to work toward earning one and would provide work training through a county program already in place, Duggan said.

"Nine times out of 10, these types of offenders end up right back in court," Duggan said. "With proper training and education, maybe, that won't happen."

When the prisoners are not on the job, Duggan said, some type of tethering program may be implemented to ensure that the prisoner is at home with his or her family in the evenings.

Students return to school with 'wordly' views

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

If asked to compose an essay about their summer vacation, four Romulus high school students will be prepared to weave a story which features worldwide appeal.

Yolanda Rupert, Dennis Tessin, Steven Hockett and Michele Scarrow represented Romulus at the World Affairs Conference at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.

The annual event draws hundreds of students from around the globe to spend a week learning about and discussing current issues. In Romulus, school officials selected a group of approximately 20 students to attend based upon grade-point averages. If the students were interested, they were required to submit an essay and two faculty recommendations as part of an application process. Ultimately, four students were selected. Each of the representatives were 10th-graders at the time.

Because attendance at the conference costs $185 per student, several community groups sponsored the students. Rupert was sponsored by the Progressive Club, Tessin by the Kiwanis Club and Hockett and Scarrow were sponsored by the Romulus Rotary Club.

When asked about the conference, each of the four students said they valued the experience.

"It was interesting," Hockett remarked. "The best part for me was we got to see what college life was like."

The conference resembled a mini-college semester. The students lived in a dormitory, two people to a room. They attended daily seminars featuring guest speakers and participated in discussion groups. In the evenings, dances were staged for the students. Most of them said they enjoyed the freedom they were given.

"The whole trip all in all was fun, and it was interesting," Scarrow said.

Also memorable to the students was the opportunity to meet people their age from all over the world including Bolivia, France, Germany, Japan, Spain and Tibet.

Rupert said making new friendships with so many interesting people was her favorite part of the conference. She said learning about different lifestyles and attitudes made a big impression on her.

Tessin remembers a teen from Sweden who spoke out during a group discussion about arms control. She said the arms race among "superpowers" such as the United States and the Soviet Union has forced her country to live in constant fear. Tessin was struck by her concerns.

"The way we are endangering other countries as superpowers..." he said.

Each of the students said they expect to share their experiences with their classmates.

SCHOOL NEWS DIGEST

School year set to begin

Students who attend the Romulus school district will return to their classrooms Tuesday.

For information about bus schedules and the time school begins, parents should contact their child's school.

Lunch program is offered

Eligible students may receive free or reduced-price lunches and milk through a federally funded program.

Eligibility is based upon size and income of the family.

Parents should contact their child's school to determine if they are eligible for the program and how to register.

Dinosaur lecture is scheduled

Officials from the Cranbrook Institute of Science will present a lecture titled "Dinosaurs! New Ideas from Old Bones."

The lecture, presented by museum Director and paleontologist Dr. Robert M. West, will begin at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Of special interest will be a discussion of a new excavation site and the types of specimens located, most notably the nests with fossilized dinosaur embryos that have been discovered intact inside eggshells.

The fee for the lecture is $5. Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door. For more information, call 645-3230.

Community high finds new home

The Romulus Alternative High School Completion Program, Community High, has moved to new quarters in the former Mt. Pleasant Elementary School.

Other changes for the school year include the appointment of the first full-time administrator for the school, Harold Connon, formerly principal of Hayti Elementary School. Hayti closed at the end of last school year due to declining enrollment.

Connon has worked with the program on a supplemental basis since its beginnings in January 1987.

Students will be offered a full 6-hour day enabling students to earn an extra half credit per semester. The school hours will be 3 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Child care will also be available for students attending the school.

Connon predicts that this may be the first year students are turned away from the program due to increasing enrollment. The facility is shared with other programs, therefore space is limited.

Residents between the ages of 16 and 21 who want to return to school to complete their high school education should contact Connon at 941-0610 right away. Classes begin Sept. 11.

Asbestos is now mandate

During the 1989-90 school year, school officials will operate within federal guidelines to remove hazardous asbestos from buildings.

Area school districts have already issued plans for removal of the substance believed to cause lung diseases. Many asbestos-removal projects are already completed.

Each school district is mandated to appoint one person to oversee the process of removal or containment of the substance.

For more information, contact your local school.

School news is welcome

We are anxious to hear from school teachers, administrators and parents with information for publication on the school news page.

News of interesting young people and their accomplishments, as well as student activities and events are always welcome.

As the school year is getting under way, the school page is a great way to get information to students and parents.

For more information, contact Barbara Wilson at 729-4000.

Student office assistants ease bustle of the 1st day

A few Romulus Senior High School students are already busy working in school and have been all summer long.

Two or three students are hired each summer to work part-time in the school office. In addition to answering telephones, the students help with mailings, deliver stock to teachers' classrooms and put locks on lockers.

This year, the assistants were also asked to send 300 letters to Romulus businesses regarding student job placement and send surveys to recent graduates.

Amy Anderson, a senior, is one of the students working in the school office.

"I like working here," she said, saying the job has proven to be convenient for her. "It was easy to get to, and I already knew the people here." Because Anderson will be the president of student government this year, a working relationship with the school administration was an added advantage.

The students have Students also work in the school offices during the academic year. Then, however, the students labor for class credit and grades rather than a paycheck.

Annapolis Hospital leased to Oakwood

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Representatives of the hospital consortium, United Care, Inc., claim the public will reap the rewards of a recent decision to lease three member hospitals to another corporation.

Oakwood Health Services Corporation will lease Annapolis Hospital, in Wayne; Heritage Hospital in Taylor and Seaway Hospital, in Trenton, as part of a long-term agreement.

Representatives of the two medical corporations have been discussing a possible joint venture since last September, according to Maureen Camps, director of community relations for United Care. At that time, United Care was known as the People's Community Hospital Authority. The group of five hospitals became a private, non-profit organization, United Care, Inc., in January.

The leasing of the hospitals will mean improved services and new equipment for area residents, Camps said. United Care will continue to own the hospitals, and Oakwood will be able to offer capital investment for upgraded services.

"I think this is good news for the people in our service area," Camps said.

Details of the agreement between the two medical corporations will be negotiated during the next month. The agreement is expected to serve as a basis for further health-related joint ventures.

Oakwood authorities said service and patients at the hospitals will not be interrupted.

The agreement does not include or affect those other hospitals and health-care facilities separately owned by Oakwood and United Care.

School-finance reform

Local state lawmakers begin endorsement campaigns

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

State Reps. William Keith (D-Garden City) and James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) have joined the ranks of lawmakers endorsing a ballot proposal that would provide $1.4 billion in property-tax relief and add $325 million new dollars for schools in the state.

The proposal, one of two school-finance reform propositions that will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot, is the only one that offers property-tax relief.

"It addresses the crucial issue of property taxes while adding new dollars to education and that's why I am endorsing it," Keith said.

The Garden City legislator, whose district includes Inkster, said he believes more organizations will jump on the bandwagon for the proposal as the election nears.

Two different constitutional amendments will be acted on separately in November. Proposal A provides for a half-cent sales-tax increase without the benefit of property-tax relief; Proposal B would increase sales taxes by 2 cents, provide

There are some heavy hitters backing (Proposal B) from both sides of the aisle. And we believe the more the two proposals are compared by the media, Proposal B will come out the overwhelming winner.

— William Keith
State representative

for a new formula for school finance, and property-tax reduction.

If both proposals are approved by the voters, the one with the greater number of affirmative votes would take effect.

Presently, the Michigan sales-tax rate is set by the Constitution at 4 cents on the dollar. A vote of the people is required to change it.

Several key organizations and business groups have already endorsed the 2-cents proposal, according to Keith. That group includes: the Michigan Municipal League, Michigan League of Women Voters, Michigan Association of Realtors, Michigan Association of School Boards, Michigan Association of Intermediate School Administrators, Michigan Association of School Administrators and the Boards United for Fair Funding for Schools.

Also, state Sens. Dan DeGraw (R-Port Huron) and John J. H. Schwarz (R-Battle Creek) announced that a group of 10 Republican senators have joined together to endorse the 2-cent sales tax proposal.

"Very few people will disagree that our schools need serious financial help. But we need to provide them financial relief with as little sacrifice from the taxpayers as possible. After careful analysis, we are convinced that this proposal will go the farthest in achieving those goals in a long-term, equitable way," DeGraw said.

"There are some heavy hitters backing this proposal (Proposal B) from both sides of the aisle. And we believe the more the two proposals are compared by the media, Proposal B will come out the overwhelming winner," Keith said.

Local in-formula districts are urged to join statewide lawsuit

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Eleven school systems in Wayne County are among the 105 districts throughout Michigan which will participate in a lawsuit challenging the current system of state education funding.

Numerous districts are expected to join the effort before Sept. 1 when legal action is set into motion.

The idea for a lawsuit was initiated by a caucus of in-formula school district administrators earlier this year. In-formula schools receive state funding based upon the number of students they serve.

Many educators claim this system is inefficient and unfair, creating gross inequalities in funding among districts.

The planned litigation is hoped to address these inequities. First, participants will seek a declaratory judgement stating the use of public funds for this endeavor is legal. Step two is the challenge of the funding system.

In order to participate, boards of education are required to approve a resolution joining the litigation, send in a share of the expenses and designate a citizen and a student to be named as litigants. Each district is expected to contribute $250 plus 15 cents per pupil.

Aug. 22 was set as the deadline to complete that process and, as of that date, 105 districts had complied. Members of the caucus, however, have agreed to extend the deadline to Sept. 1 when they take their case to circuit court.

The Detroit law firm of Plunkett and Cooney will represent the caucus.

Several nearby districts are among the participants in the lawsuit.

Robert Fowler, president of the Van Buren Board of Education, said his district has completed all of the steps necessary to be a litigant.

"We believe something has got to be done. We're not sure if the proposal our lawmakers - wisely or unwisely - have put on the ballot will work. We're not even sure it will pass," Fowler said, referring to proposals which will appear on the November ballot increasing state sales tax for education.

"We feel we have to keep moving forward," he added.

Also participating in the litigation is the Wayne/Westland school district.

"We're anxious to see what happens," said Superintendent Dennis O'Neill. "Obviously we've got to do something or in-formula schools will go out of business. We can't continue this disparity between the districts."

O'Neill said the Wayne/Westland board of education voted unanimously in favor of participation.

Teachers: High-tech classrooms near

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Area educators agree with the findings of a report recently released by the National Education Association which calls for a computer on every teacher's desk by 1991.

The NEA Special Committee on Education Technology produced the report after a study of schools throughout the country. In order to compete in an information-based job market, students need analytical, collaborative and problem-solving skills, the report concludes.

In addition, the report demands a focus on stronger technology in the classroom.

Many local teachers agree with the report, claiming an emphasis on technology is becoming increasingly important. Most of these educators were optimistic that this demand will be met in the not-too-distant future.

"We're beginning to come to grips with what the computer can do," said Thomas Andrews, social studies teacher at Inkster Senior High School. "We need to bring our children into the 21st century."

Andrews added that he already uses a computer quite often in his classroom work and planning.

Jerry Ostoin, principal of Plymouth-Salem High School, agrees that the trend toward a technological educational environment has already begun.

"You're going to have to be computer literate... People need to prepare to change jobs at least five times," he said.

At Plymouth-Salem, Ostoin said, students learn "keyboarding" instead of basic typing. He expects this trend to continue within the next five or ten years.

"High tech is very important and has to come into play in

State lawmakers split on proposed abortion bill

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Local lawmakers were generally skeptical when it came to proposed legislation to protect abortion rights in Michigan.

The latest of several pro-choice bills, proposed by state Rep. Maxine Berman (D-Southfield), states that no law in Michigan will "force a woman to terminate or complete a pregnancy."

Supporters of the legislation include state Reps. Shirley Johnson (R-Royal Oak), Teola Hunter (D-Detroit) and Donald Gilmer (R-Augusta).

But local representatives said they doubt the bill will have much effect on the abortion debate in Michigan, which has become more heated since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in June that states can place restrictions on abortions.

"The majority of Michigan legislation would probably be, by virtue of previous votes, would be supportive of some additional restrictions," said state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township).

Kosteva, who has a pro-life voting record, said he supports requiring parental consent before teens can obtain an abortion.

"It doesn't make sense that you have to have a form signed by your parents to get your ear pierced, but you don't need your parents' permission to get an abortion," he said.

State Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) agreed that parental consent for abortion is more reasonable than parental consent for other medical procedures.

"I've never really understood how an abortion could be separated from all the other medical attention," Law said. "And it is medical attention."

I've never really understood how an abortion could be separated from all other medical attention.

— Gerald Law
State representative

Law agreed that Berman's bill would not find much support, and is more likely an attempt by pro-choice legislators to make their voices heard, particularly with their frustration about the 1988 state referendum which banned

Medicaid-funded abortions. "Obviously their side is on the losing end, not only of the state referendum, but of the Supreme Court ruling, and they're very unhappy," Law said.

State Sen. George Hart (D-Dearborn) said the Berman bill could not prevent further legislation to restrict abortion.

"Between now and this fall, when we go into session, there will be 40 bills pertaining to abortion legislation," Hart said. "Some will be constructive, and some will be meaningless, and some will be for publicity, and they're not going to go anywhere."

According to Hart, a bill stating that there will be no anti-abortion legislation could not prevent such legislation, as a constitutional amendment could do.

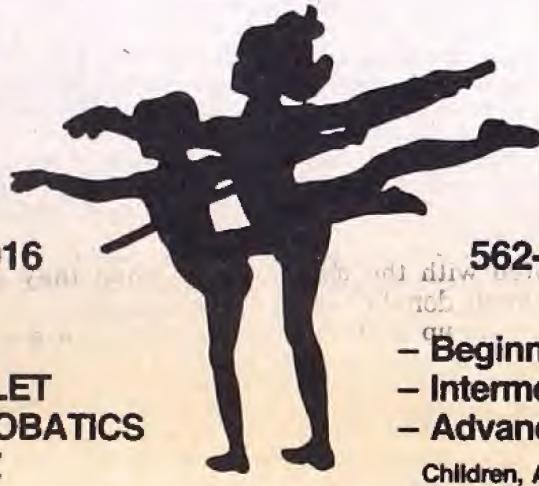

"It's not going to halt the legislative process," Hart said.

State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) said any bill on abortion would be premature.

"I think the Supreme Court decision that's come down needs time to settle," Faust said.

Council actions are unexcusable

There are no acceptable excuses. Members of the Wayne City Council know better than to blatantly disregard the law, as they did last week.

Citizens of this community cannot and will not tolerate such actions by public officials, actions which smack of an apparent belief by these public officials that they are "above the law."

This newspaper has formally protested an Aug. 23 meeting of Glenwood Heights and Legacy Estates homeowners attended by all seven members of the Wayne City Council. The meeting was staged at the Wayne City Hall and was clearly pre-planned for the purpose of discussing a boundary-lines dispute between the homeowners and officials of the Wayne-Westland school district.

The meeting was neither posted nor published as a special meeting of the city council. The meeting was also not designed to be a special public meeting but was intended to serve as one of several regular meetings the homeowners have scheduled to plot strategies for the boundary dispute.

In fact, one homeowner said, only a few councilmembers were invited.

Nevertheless, all seven members of the Wayne City Council made their presence known. Four councilmembers spoke during the meeting and were obviously steering and controlling the proceeding.

We remain puzzled by the fact that not one of the seven councilmembers remembered provisions of the Open Meetings Act, while attending the meeting. We remain puzzled that not one city councilmember remembered to uphold the law.

The Michigan Open Meetings Act is not a complex state law to comprehend.

The law states, simply, that any time a quorum (four or more in the city of Wayne) of councilmembers assemble to deliberate on public issues, the meeting must be staged in compliance with the Open Meetings Act. Such compliance includes the posting or publishing of a notice announcing the scheduled meeting, the taking of minutes during the meeting, the staging of the meeting in a public place and the making of all decisions before members of the public.

Despite the simplicity of this law, some local public officials continue to have difficulty understanding it. Last year, this newspaper asked that a meeting staged in violation of the Michigan Open Meetings Act by members of the now-defunct Peoples Community Hospital Authority Board of Directors – of which the city of Wayne was a member – be restaged because most of the meeting was closed to members of the public and the press.

It took a newspaper lawsuit to convince PCHA officials to abide by the law.

Despite our outrage at the actions of the Wayne city councilmembers, we must send our sympathies to the homeowners who gathered last week to exercise their constitutional right to assemble and seek redress of their grievances.

Some homeowners have called the newspaper offices, questioning why we are "trying to overshadow the real issue" – the boundary dispute. Overshadowing the boundary dispute is certainly not our intent, as larger issues are at hand.

The real issues we are protesting, protecting and promoting are the rights and liberties of area citizens. Perhaps, the recent Open Meetings Act violation was one of the less serious infractions of this law yet reported. Perhaps, Wayne residents are understandably not alarmed that the presence of seven councilmembers at a homeowners' meeting constitutes the need for concerns about the Open Meetings Act.

But, perhaps, a city council that is allowed to so blatantly violate the law without criticism chooses to do so again in the future. Perhaps, an unfettered city council becomes uncontrollable and unaccountable to the people of this city.

It is the duty of this newspaper to ensure that the rights and freedoms of the people we serve are protected and followed to the letter of the law. It is the duty of this newspaper to uphold the sacred ethical principles to which we ascribe regarding the enforcement of these rights.

We believe the actions displayed by members of the Wayne City Council last week are unacceptable, even bordering on criminal. We won't tolerate a future display of disregard for the law.

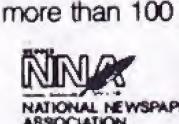

We urge citizens of this community to share our zeal in protecting their rights. We urge citizens of this community to join us in our role as the watchdogs of American democracy.

Mission accomplished.

After extensive research (about 5 pounds worth each), my sister and I have finally determined that the chocolate cake we grew up with and have long been craving was one of two recipes.

Everyone in the family loved the cake we searched for. Unfortunately, the recipe was lost with the rather unorthodox and untimely death of our dear grandmother. Gossip has it that Granny dear tripped over the curb and, er, fell asleep in the driveway while taking contraband wine bottles out to the trash, during a secret mission of her own very late one night.

While the trash men were quite surprised to find her in the dump at the end of the day, she never recovered from the shock of the incident and died upon being revived at the hospital. Something about the guy with the fibrillator paddles in the emergency room resembling her fourth husband . . . But that's another story.

The details of the ugly incident were painful and only discussed in hushed terms when adults thought my sister and I were out of earshot.

No matter what Granny's character flaws, drinking or even napping tendencies, she could cook and bake with the best of them. Finding out that she was making dessert was the only thing that kept either of us home for meals. She didn't pass along her culinary talent to Mom, you see, much to our dismay.

My sister and I have concluded that the chocolate cake we were so enamored of as children and deprived of with Grandma's passing had to be either Red Velvet Cocoa Cake or Mayonnaise Chocolate Cake. We don't remember it being red, but we were kids. What did we know? We did, however, have to consume a great many cakes to determine this.

Hey, it's dirty work but somebody has to do it.

I was reminded of this search for these recipes this week when a very nice reader phoned to ask me to please print these two recipes. She explained that I had admitted to having them in an earlier column, but hadn't kept my word and provided her with them. These are dedicated to this very nice woman who was persistent enough to keep phoning me until she got through to let me know of her request. I wish all my callers were as pleasant and as charming as she was.

Red velvet cocoa cake

12 cups shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons Hershey's Cocoa
2 ounces red food coloring (paste type is best)
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon vinegar

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat well. In a separate dish, blend cocoa and food coloring. Add to sugar mixture. Add flour, buttermilk and salt alternately. Mix soda and vinegar in cup and add. Bake in two 9-inch cake pans, greased and floured, at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool before frosting.

Tradition

Love is secret ingredient for family of cooks

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

No electricity, no cookbooks, no modern appliances. The Romulus farmhouse in which Helena Marie Maciejewski learned to cook was simply filled with nine brothers and sisters and a loving mother.

As one of the oldest children in the household, Maciejewski was expected to take on the responsibility of helping with meals early in her life.

Today, Maciejewski recalls those early days from her modern home in a Romulus subdivision. But she can still savor the warm aromas that came from her mother's kitchen.

She remembers pierogi, head cheese, freshly churned butter, fruit preserves with nuts and homemade Polish sausage.

Rarely did Maciejewski's family need to go to market. They had everything they needed on the farm. Even the flour they used came from grains grown on their own land.

They also raised bees for honey and raised or hunted animals for meat.

Maciejewski's mother often came from the fields carrying half a bushel of potatoes, enough for one meal.

"When you sat down to that table, you could have seconds, thirds, fourths. Everything was served on platters," Maciejewski said.

Maciejewski was fascinated by her mother's cooking style. Mom never used cookbooks. Most of the recipes had been used in the family for years and were filled with tradition.

After marrying and having a daughter of her own, Maciejewski developed her own specialties, building on the knowledge she gained from her mother. Her stuffed peppers and cabbage, along with soups of all kinds, became legends within her family.

Her desserts - lemon pie, banana cake and ginger bread - were all well-loved by her daughter.

A few years ago, Maciejewski won a microwave oven from the Associated Newspapers for submitting a winning recipe during a holiday cooking contest.

Today, Maciejewski's vision is slowly failing. In order to cook, she depends on the help of her daughter, Delores Nowlin.

But Maciejewski's dishes will always be special. They are tinged with tradition and memories. More importantly, her food is filled with the most important ingredient of all - love.

"When you have love in your cooking, your cooking is good," Nowlin explained.

Polish breaded veal chops (Kotlety celece bite)

Loin or rib veal chops
Salt
Pepper
Flour
1 cup cream
2 tablespoons cold water
1 egg
Bread crumbs

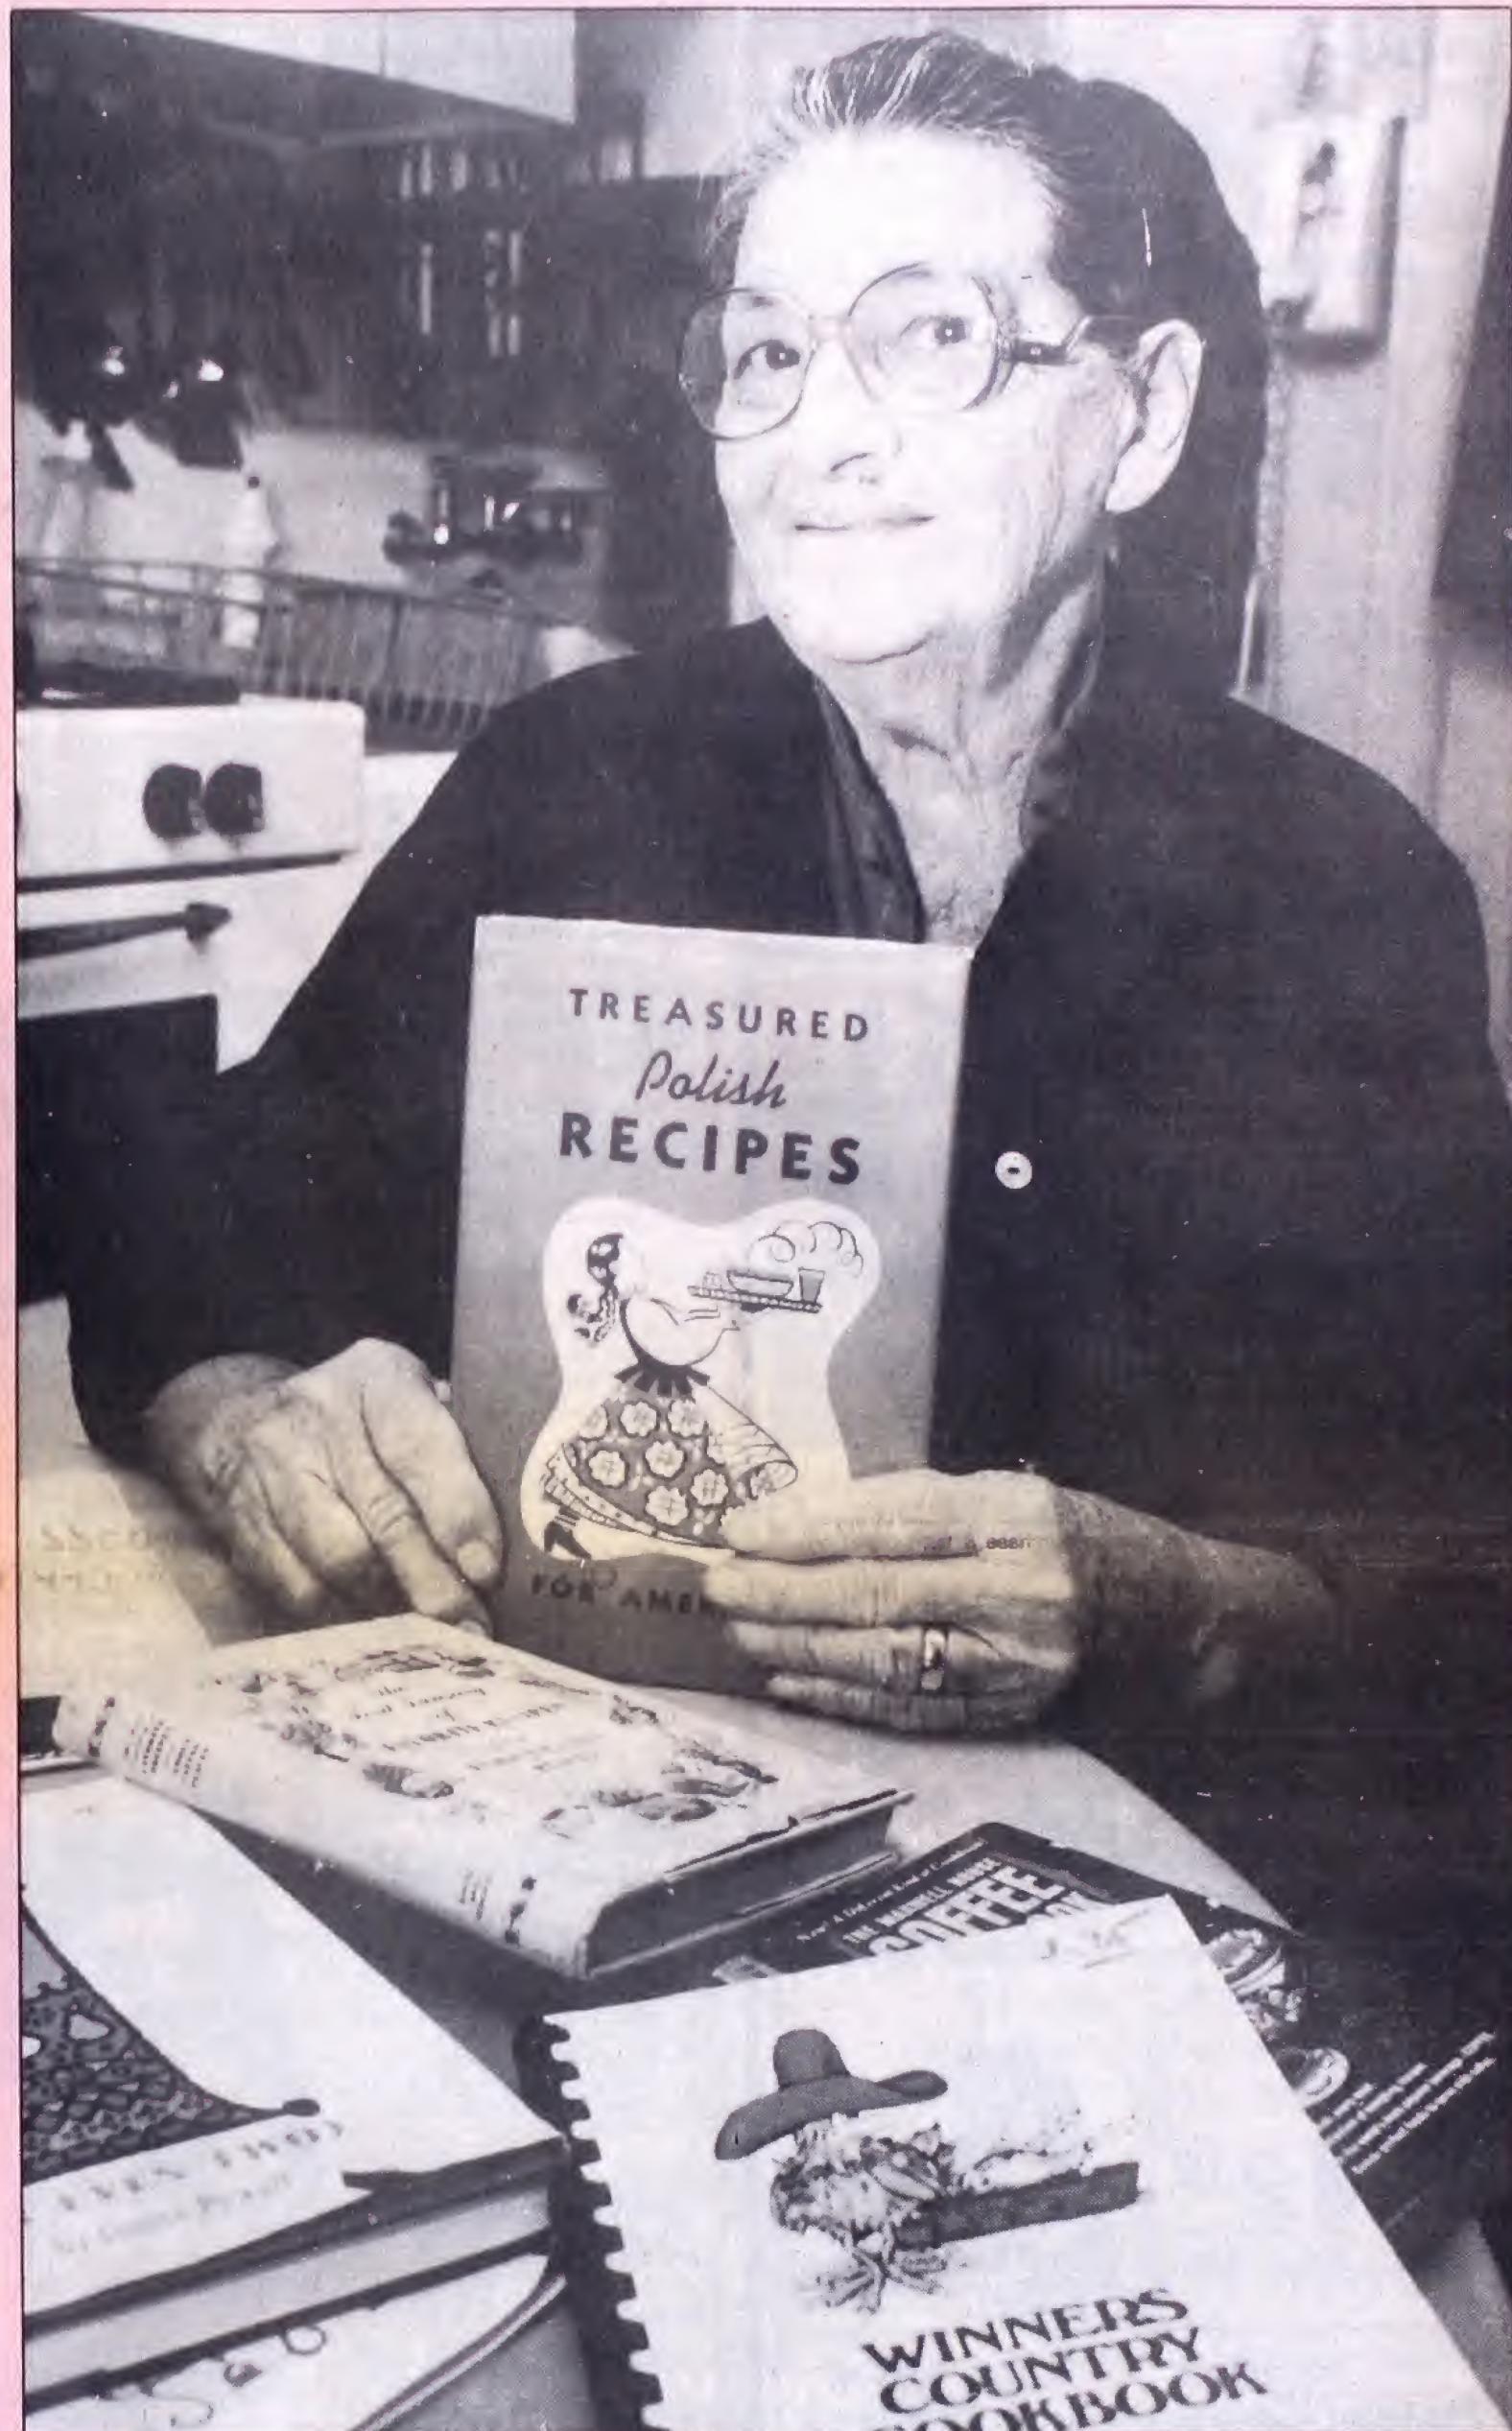

Pound veal chops thin. Add salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Add water to egg and milk lightly with a fork. Dip veal chops in egg mixture, then in bread crumbs. Fry meat in skillet. Be sure to use butter for frying. No other meat absorbs the flavor as veal does.

When the chops are nicely browned on both sides, add the cream. Place in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve.

Polish lamb with rice (Potrawa z baraniny z ryżem)

Lamb breast
2 quarts water
1 onion
Celery tops
Parsley
2 carrots
1 cup rice
1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs
Salt
Pepper

Cook first 6 ingredients until meat is tender. Remove meat. Wash rice. Add to meat stock. Bake in 350-degree oven for 40 minutes. Add mushrooms and egg yolks. Stir well. Place the cooked meat on top and cover with buttered bread crumbs. Continue to bake for 20 minutes in 300-degree oven. Serve.

Creamed shrimp with rice (Potrawka z krewetkow)

3 cups cooked rice
2 cups cooked shrimp
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Salt
Pepper
Chopped parsley

Cook first 6 ingredients until meat is tender. Remove meat. Wash rice. Add to meat stock. Bake in 350-degree oven for 40 minutes. Add mushrooms and egg yolks. Stir well. Place the cooked meat on top and cover with buttered bread

Melt butter and blend in flour. Cook until mixture bubbles. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly until smooth. Reduce heat and cook for 3 minutes. Add lemon juice, salt, pepper and parsley. Stir in. Add shrimp. Mound hot rice on large platter. Cover with the creamed mixture. Garnish with parsley.

Pierogi

2 eggs
1/2 cup water
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Mound flour on kneading board and make a hole in the center. Drop eggs into hole and cut into flour with a knife. Add salt and water. Knead until firm. Let dough rest for 10 minutes covered with a warm bowl. Divide dough in halves and roll thin. Cut circles with a large biscuit cutter. Place a spoonful of filling (see recipes below) a little to one side on each round of dough. Moisten edges with water. Fold over and press edges firmly together. Be sure they are well-sealed to prevent filling from running out. Drop pierogi into salted water. Cook gently for 3 to 5 minutes.

Lift out of water carefully with a perforated spoon. The dough has a tendency to dry while you are working with it. A dry dough will not seal completely. We suggest rolling out a large circle of dough, placing small mounds of filling far enough apart to allow for cutting and folding the dough over the filling. Then, cut with a small biscuit cutter. Seal firmly. Never crowd or pile pierogi. The uncooked will stick, and the cooked will lose shape and lightness.

Cheese filling

1 cup cottage cheese
1 teaspoon melted butter
1 beaten egg
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons currants
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream cheese with melted butter. Add other ingredients and mix well.

Mushrooms and meat filling

1/2 cup cooked beef
1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
1 onion, chopped fine
Butter
Salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons sour cream

Run cooked meat through meat grinder. Fry onion in butter until transparent. Add mushrooms and meat. Season to taste. Add sour cream and cool before using.

Cake

Chocolate mayonnaise cake

2 cups unsifted flour
2/3 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1 2/3 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise
1 1/3 cups water

Grease and flour bottoms of two 9-inch round baking pans. In medium bowl, stir together flour, cocoa, baking soda and baking powder. Set aside. In large bowl with mixer at high speed, beat sugar, eggs and vanilla, occasionally scraping bowl, 3 minutes or until light and fluffy. Reduce speed to low and beat in mayonnaise. Add flour mixture in four additions alternately with water, beginning and ending with flour.

Pour into prepared pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Frost when cool.

UNDERSTANDING CANCER

By Enrique Signori, M.D.

Cancer is not one disease, but a group of diseases. There are many types of cancers, but all are growths of malignant tissue.

In normal tissue, cells receive a signal that tells them to grow and divide, and another signal that tells them to stop dividing. In contrast, cancer cells do not get the signal to stop and so they continue to divide uncontrollably, eventually destroying normal tissue.

Cancers are named according to the site of the normal tissue in which they began, which is the primary cancer. The disease may then enter the blood and lymphatic channels, spreading throughout the body. This is called metastatic cancer.

CANCER IS NOT CATCHING
Cancer is not contagious. It does not spread from one person to another. There is no danger of catching cancer, even if you are caring for a person who has the disease.

Some families seem to have a high incidence of cancer. We do not know if this is because they share an inherited predisposition to cancer or because they share a common environment that exposes them to risk.

CAUSES OF CANCER
The causes of cancer are complex. However, some associations are very strong. Cigarette smoking and dietary factors account for approximately 65-70 percent of all cancer in the U.S. Other factors, including certain chemicals, exposure to radiation and sun, and reproductive and sexual behavior, may also influence the risk of cancers.

Many cancers are potentially preventable. For example, 90 percent of all lung cancers are caused by smoking. Even people who have smoked for many years can reduce their cancer risk by quitting.

Healthy eating habits may also reduce the risk of cancer. Prevention is the best defense in the war against cancer.

Next week, I will discuss current treatment for cancer.

4 new coaches make their debuts

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

As the countdown for the 1989 high school football season approaches in the area and across the state of Michigan, coaches are putting their final touches to their starting lineups for the opening day games.

Most local teams are scheduled to play non-conference games on Friday.

Also getting ready to make their coaching debuts are four new head coaches: Sam Villa, named interim at Belleville High, replaces Dave McCarty; Dan Henry, former Bishop Borgess coach returns to the public school gridirons as head coach at Romulus High; Ron Gardner, who played professionally in the National Football and Canadian Leagues, is at Inkster, while Greg Hammond has taken over the Chiefs of New Boston High from Tom Labeau.

Most prep football fans probably should invest in a program to identify their favorite teams and coaches.

In the meantime, Robert Yauck returns for his 21st season as head coach at Robichaud. He is the dean of area high school football coaches.

Villa steps into the 'interimship' with fetters created by a policy that stipulates players must 'Pay to Play' due to the voter rejection of a 4-mill tax increase. Each varsity candidate at Belleville High is asked to come up with $250 to help defray the cost of the program.

With controversy and dissension fermented by the policy, Villa has appeared to have managed to put together a solid lineup that he hopes will "be competitive" in the Wolverine 'A' Conference.

A former Belleville high school star gridider, Villa has no illusions of grandeur in a league that again looks like a dogfight between the traditional powers - Dearborn Fordson, Monroe, and Trenton. Some would add Lincoln Park to the list of title contenders this year.

If the reports from the prognosticators are correct, that would mean Belleville will need a major miracle to move up the conference ladder toward the top.

However, if the Tigers can improve upon their 3-6 won-lost record of a year ago, they will have given school officials ample proof that the interim title should be removed and Villa named as head coach for the 1990.

Also oblivious to their respective conference championships were the past teams fielded at Romulus, Inkster, and New Boston Huron. They have been the traditional door-mats in their conferences.

School officials hope to correct that with the hiring of new coaches.

Henry knows what it's like to be a winner. But, for Romulus High to get to the top, he stresses, there must be sacrifices in the form of hard work on the practice field.

Henry also believes he has an edge over his predecessors.

"One advantage we have is that we're used to competing in a competitive league," said Henry, who moves from the Catholic League to the South Central where he expects perennial powers like Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ypsilanti to remain as roadblocks to the Eagles' respectability in the SCC.

Since entering the SCC two years ago, Romulus has failed to win a conference game. They won three of six games a year ago.

It's an uphill climb for Romulus gridders

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When the Eagles of Romulus hit the gridiron at Taylor Truman Friday night, it will begin a new chapter in Romulus football history.

The Eagles will be led by Dan Henry, who replaces Norb Glover as head coach. Henry returns to the local scene after coaching stints at Wayne Memorial and Bishop Borgess.

Subsequently, from a field of about 25 determined varsity candidates, Henry must forge a team that has never been a winner in the South Central Conference.

It won't be an easy task for the new coach and his staff.

But Henry isn't ready to discuss the SCC. He is, however, ready to take on Truman, his and the team's first opponent which also happens to be one of Romulus' former league opponents.

First-game jitters and mistakes can be expected, cautions Henry, who says games are won on the fields of practice and by the team which creates opportunities and capitalizes on them.

"We really don't know too much about Truman because, after all, it the season opener for both teams. However, because it is the opener, the team that overcome its mistakes will probably be the winner. We're really looking forward to the opener."

Offense, the lack of it, has hurt the Eagles in the past. Henry plans to rectify that by installing Chris Jones at quarterback. Jones has out-worked everyone and has earned a shot at the starting assignment, Henry said.

Jones also brings the experience he gained by attending the University of Michigan's summer football camp. He could be the long-awaited leader the Eagles have waited for, for the past decade.

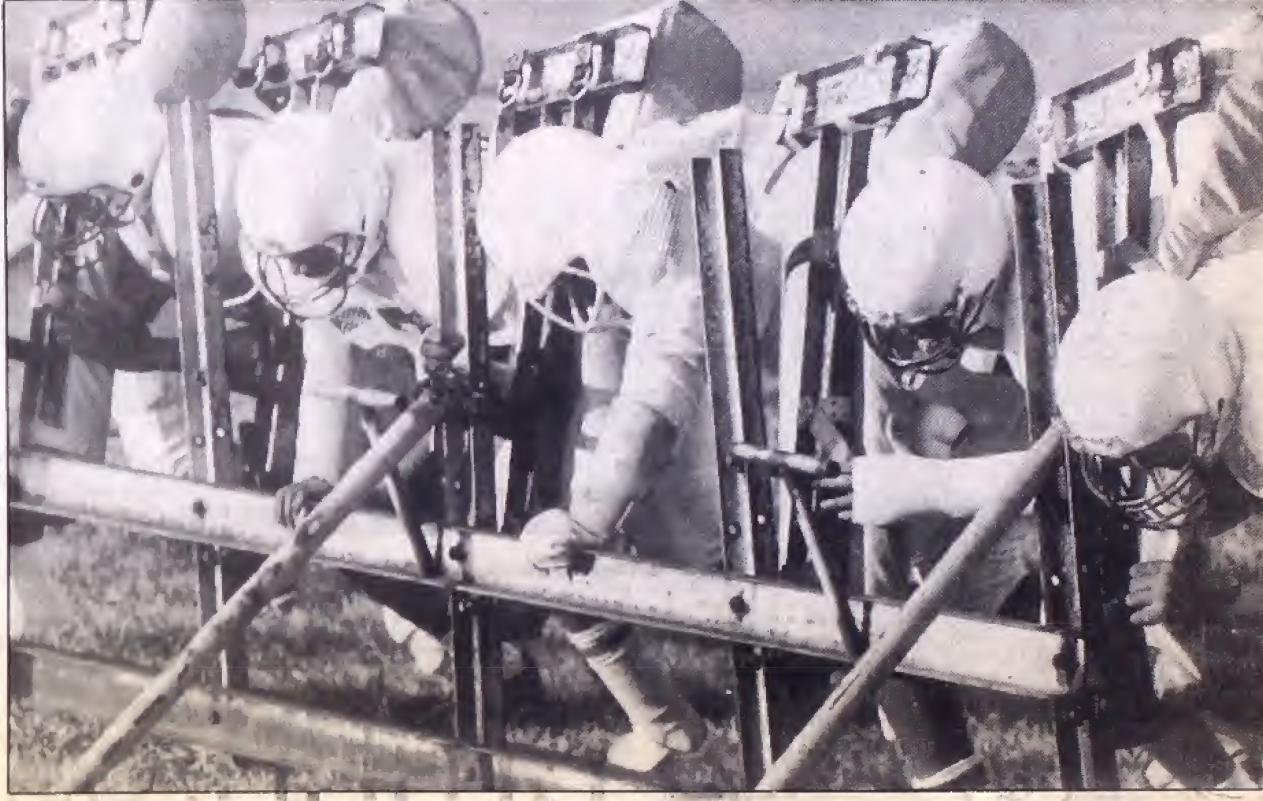

One of Jones's premier targets undoubtedly will be split end Tim Kosikowski, an excellent athlete who has earned recognition in past football as well as wrestling campaigns. A rugged competitor, Kosikowski will be tough to stop once he has his hands on the ball.

Henry has also switched former tight end Eric Robinson, a 6-1, 185-pound athlete, to the fullback slot because of his blocking and running ability.

There are a few other notables that Romulus fans will be reading about in the weeks to come. Virgil Smith, a speedy 5-8, 155-pound senior, is back at flanker and he will be teaming up with Ebon Smith, a 5-7, 160-pound junior, in the backfield. Smith is a running back who will have to churn out the yardage if the Eagles are to succeed.

The line has a trio of blue chippers: Two-way tackle Mark Lewis (6-4, 210); Guam Lee, a defensive nose guard (6-0, 205) and Tony Calockio,

The great push forward

After two-weeks of hard and grueling training, area prep grid teams will test their 1989 strengths, starting Friday, with nonleague games. Four new coaches will make their local debuts as school officials have shuffled the coaching cards in hopes of coming up with winning hands. Above, the Inkster Vikings put their shoulders to the line in hopes of erasing their doormat image in the Suburban Athletic Conference. They'll be hard-pressed to stop pre-season title favorite and defending SAC champ, Dearborn Heights Robichaud. ANP photo by Werner Solcum/staff photographer

Can Belleville play despite 'pay to play' policy?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If the Tigers of Belleville High emerge from the controversy of Pay to Play as winners, they will have to thank an interim coach and a small core of returning lettermen led by a senior quarterback.

Sam Villa, named interim head coach, and his assistant coaches, unveil their 1989 Tigers at 4 p.m. Friday at Taylor Center.

And Villa is ready to go with Jeremy Ison at the crucial quarterback slot. Ison was tested a year ago when he helped the Tigers carve out a 3-6 record. An excellent athlete who has a feverish desire to win, Ison has helped the Tigers win conference championships in basketball and baseball.

It will be a difficult task for the Tigers to reach the top in football, however. The season is clouded by economics - each player must pay $250 to play because the school district lacks the funds to support sports.

What effect the policy will have on the football program time will only tell.

But with Ison at the throttle of the Tiger offense and with one of the biggest offensive lines in the area - the lineup includes tackles Anthony Martinez (6-5, 270), Brian Gulliver

(6-6, 240), and guards Jim McCoy (6-1, 298), Jason Clark (6-2, 240), and Walt Ostrowski (5-8, 222), along with tight ends Ron Hunter (6-3, 190) and Steve Wygonik (6-0, 180), the Tigers have a good opportunity to improve upon their record of a year ago, despite the turmoil and uproar of paying to play.

But no one in these parts is asking where the beef is. Belleville definitely has it. And running backs like Tom Perces, John Perry, Jim Wagner, Josh Fisher, and Chris Zaccaria should have little trouble finding the holes for yardage.

If the Tigers manage to come out of their opener with a victory, they will face Lincoln Park the following Friday (Sept. 8) in Lincoln Park for their Wolverine 'A' Conference opener.

That game could be the key to the Tigers' season.

Many believe that the Railplatters of Lincoln Park have one of their finest teams in recent memory. LP is picked to give Monroe, the defending champ, and Fordson, the No. 1 challenger, a run for their money.

A Belleville victory over the Railplatters would send a shock wave to the rest of the conference.

But, then, let's wait and see what happens to these Tigers at Taylor Center, after all, reality usually sets in after the first encounter.

Robichaud High football fans believe this could be the year of the Bulldogs'. With an experienced backfield returning to Coach Bob Yauck's lineup, and a pocketful of blue chippers who led the Bulldogs to an undefeated SAC year, coaches believe that Robichaud has the potential to go all the way to the Pontiac Silverdome this November. Only time will tell. ANP file photo

'New kid' on block is talking 'title'

Ron Gardner is the new kid on the Suburban Athletic Conference block, and he says he wants the conference football championship this year.

"That's our goal," says the newly-appointed Inkster grid coach. "Win the conference title. I wouldn't be here or tell our kids to play for anything less if I didn't believe we could do it."

If Gardner manages to pull off his coup and upset pre-season title hopefuls Highland Park, Oak Park and the undefeated SAC champ, Robichaud, it will be the biggest turnaround in SAC history. The Vikings finished 1-8 a year ago under former coach Alonzo Glaze. No one is giving them a chance to finish on top.

Gardner got a pretty good look at his small cadre of players - about 20 reported for varsity - during a scrimmage against Detroit MacKenzie and Demby last week, and he said he was satisfied at what he saw.

"I thought our kids played well," he said. "There is still a lot of work ahead, but I believe we will be ready for our opener."

Inkster will open the 1989 campaign before the home crowd at 4 p.m. Friday. The Vikings will host Saginaw Buena Vista. Gardner and his staff were able to scout their opening-day opponents and believed the two teams are "about equal."

"Size-wise I would say we're about the same, but they do have a strong fullback that we're going to have to stop. I believe that we are about evenly matched."

A week from Friday, Gardner and the Vikings are on the road and will open the SAC Conference at River Rouge. If Gardner's troops come away from the downriver community with a victory, some may take him seriously when he says that his goal is to capture the SAC trophy this year.

"Inkster deserves a better image," Gardner said. "And everyone around here has been very cooperative. We're going to do everything we can to help turn this program around."

This may be best Robichaud season

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

One question high school football fans in the area are asking aloud these days is: "Can the Bulldogs of Robichaud go all the way in '89?"

With Tyrone Wheatley returning to the Suburban Athletic Conference defending champ's backfield, many believe the answer to that question is: 'Yes'.

Wheatley, a 6-2, 205 junior halfback, is considered one of the finest offensive players in the state, and much of the Bulldogs' success story this season will depend upon on what kind of role he plays.

But Wheatley isn't the only reason why most coaches and teams will have their eyes pinned on the Bulldogs this year. Robichaud has a sterling cast of returning letterwinners.

"I believe we have the potential of making this a year that our fans will never forget if, of course, we do our playing on the gridiron and not let what sportswriters write go to our heads. As we all know, a key injury can shuffle the deck and turn the tide," commented Robichaud coach Bob Yauck, who has seen the ball bounce every way during his two decades as head coach.

"Yes, we have some outstanding talent on this team, but we also had it on last year's team and we lost three games, including the first two. Anyone who has been in this business a couple of years will tell you that just having the talent isn't enough. Some of those bounces have to go your way, too."

"These kids are going to have to go out there each week and prove they are the best because when you're the defending champ, everyone is gunning for you," Yauck stressed.

Last year, after two heartbreaking, nonleague setbacks that

Sport: Football
Achievement: An all-conference, all-area performer a year ago, Selman, a 6-foot 1-inch, 205-pound guard-linebacker, is one of the keys to the Bulldogs' success. If the former champs are to reach the Silverdome, Selman will have a lot to say about it.

Bulldogs

cost the Bulldogs a shot at the Class B district title, Robichaud strung together six consecutive SAC victories to capture the conference championship. A season-ending loss at the hands of Bay City John Glenn, a Class A power, eliminated the SAC champs from post-season consideration.

On Friday, Sept. 1 the Bulldogs have a rematch with Saline. The two nonconference rivals square off at 7 p.m. in Saline, and Yauck knows that a repeat of last year's 7-6 nailbiting loss could sound the knell on his team's chances of reaching the state playoffs again. A week later, Robichaud will clash with University of Detroit High, a team that also eked out an 8-6 victory over the Dearborn Heights gridders a year ago.

Debut

Gardner is also on the spot at Inkster. The Vikings don't know what it's like to be a winner in football. They're coming off of a 1-8 season and, according to scouting reports, Robichaud, Highland Park, and River Rouge are again loaded with talent.

If Gardner is going to succeed, he will need more manpower than the handful of recruits who showed up for varsity this year. He has slim pickings, but is optimistic that he can turn the program around. "We're lacking in numbers," Gardner said as he prepares his Vikings for the Friday opener at home against Saginaw Buena Vista. "And that's a precarious position to be in. If you're hit with any kind of injuries, you don't have the people to fill the void."

Gardner played professionally with the New York Giants and the Cleveland Browns after starring for the Braves in Ypsilanti.

Hammond is also in Gardner's shoes. He also has inherited a team that winning is foreign to. The Chiefs won one of their nine starts in 1988.

The key to the 1989 campaign, according to Hammond, "is to stay healthy."

"We have some talented and seasoned players," the rookie coach says, "and if we can stay healthy, we will surprise some people."

But no one is surprised that Robichaud is considered the team to beat in the Suburban Athletic Conference this season. With the return of junior running back Tyrone Wheatley, coach Yauck has one of the finest scoring machines in the area if not the state. Wheatley, at 6-2, 205-pounds, will form the nucleus of a Bulldog team that should repeat in the conference and, if they can get past their first two non-conference rivals, make it into the state playoffs.

Yauck is confident that his team "will play a role in determining who will win the SAC title this year."

Henry takes over at Wayne

It doesn't get the same attention as football or basketball, but golf is a rising sport, gaining interest by the year. It used to be known as a sport for the rich or the retired, but young adults have discovered that making a birdie is as exciting as scoring a touchdown.

A record number of high school students are now trying out for the school golf team. Plymouth-Canton has 37 students trying out for just four remaining spots. Turnouts are also high at Wayne Memorial, John Glenn and Plymouth-Salem.

With the 1989 season just weeks away, here is a look at the upcoming season.

WAYNE MEMORIAL NOT only lost their key player of a year ago, Craig Klimczak, but the Zebras will find themselves with a new coach for the first time in 12 years.

Wayne Memorial basketball coach Chuck Henry will take over for Dennis Chall, who was named to an administrative-internship position at Wayne Memorial.

"It's a great opportunity and it's something I've always thought about doing," said Chall, who was forced to give up his 12-year job as head golf coach.

Wayne Memorial golf standout Darren Kent (above) is shooting for a state-qualifying season in 1989. Kent, a senior, is expected to be one of the top golfers in the area. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer also a two-way performer at tackle (6-1, 205) are definitely all-conference material.

If hard work plays dividends, then the 1989 Eagles should improve their SCC stock. However, no one is expecting Henry and his Eagles to cash in their chips for a conference title.

The first two games usually don't make a season, but in the case of the Bulldogs they just may. If the champs lose their first two encounters again, it could destroy them mentally and may have an irreversible effect down the road.

If the Bulldogs come out of their first two unscathed, they would have the momentum to carry them past such would-be SAC title challengers like Highland Park and Oak Park. The latter two teams have the best chance

LOVE
No matter how hard I try, it seems that there is always something to stand in my way; there is always that extra step; that extra pull; that extra mile. It's like a test to see how far I can go before I must give up; there will always be something to stand in your way.

No matter how hard I try, nobody wants me to be me, and I wouldn't change me for nothing in the world. I just figure its something wrong with them.

LUCILLE Z.
